

A Preventable PUBLIC HEALTH CRISIS

In the absence of confirmed abuse or neglect, children have a right to have a relationship with both parents

Children denied a relationship with a parent also struggle as adults. We know that:

- 70% suffer from depression
- 35% develop problems with drugs and alcohol
- 50% are alienated from their own children

Erasing a loved one is a problem often ignored because it is considered a normal part of divorce

A child losing contact with a fit and loving parent or siblings... is not normal

ERASING FAMILY is shedding light on this epidemic

The ERASING FAMILY documentary will build a coalition of mental health professionals, teachers, clergy, politicians, lawyers and judges to enact reforms and respond to this growing public health crisis

We need to strengthen family bonds after divorce, not #ERASE them

In the US alone, over 22 MILLION PARENTS are being erased from their children's lives after divorce and separation

The ERASING FAMILY documentary follows young adults fighting to reunite with their broken families

The ERASING FAMILY documentary investigates family bond obstruction from multiple perspectives: Moms and Dads #ERASED from their children lives and siblings who don't see each other

Ashlynn, 23, California

"I'd say to my sister, our Dad is not a monster. He is nothing like we were told he was."

Brian, 29, Virginia

"I told everyone that not seeing my mom for a decade was an easy decision to make. But it wasn't easy at all."

Lauren, 12, Canada

"My dream is to live a week with my Mom, a week with my Dad, and have my brother with me."

Yenni, 13, Argentina

"Some FAMILIES have photos and memories. I have court documents."

CREATING FILMS THAT CREATE CHANGE

ERASING FAMILY is Director/Producer Ginger Gentile's third feature-length documentary. She co-directed ERASING DAD, the film that made family bond obstruction front-page news and drove legislative and court reform in Argentina. Most importantly, the film helped reunite families. ERASING FAMILY seeks to replicate this on a global scale. Filmed in more than 12 locations around the US, Canada, Sweden, and Argentina in stunning 4k ultra high definition, the documentary is now being edited by the Oscar-winning team whose work has also been featured at the Sundance Film Festival. ERASING FAMILY is expected to premiere in early 2019.
